The City Schools.

It was fondly hoped by the parents and guardians of the three hundred and fifty children of school-going age in this city that the very moment the School Act of last session became law, the Municipal Council, who are ex officio the Board of School Trustees, would take the necessary steps to provide suitable accommodation for the pupils and get the schools in working order. The past experiences of the citizens of Victoria in educational affairs have not been of that character that they can look back upon with either pleasure or satisfaction. Every attempt has as far been a failure, partly the fault of the people themselves, half-hearted, don't-care policy of the Government, which, while it was never at a loss for means to carry out any project that the Governor might choose to take in hand, could never spare more than a bare pittance toward promoting the interests of education. When the Act of last session was passed and became law, it was hoped the days of haphazard and obstruction in school matters were at an end, and that no time would be lost in providing school-houses, together with maps, globes, books, and whatever else might be required, and that instead of children by the score now to be seen trotting round the streets from early morn till dusk, picking up an education that they hereafter lead many of them to the church-gate but will certainly never make them respectable or useful citizens, they would be gathered into the public schools where they would enjoy the advantage of instruction in every branch of learning necessary to qualify them for the active duties of life. We have been frequently asked, why do the Council not act? The law is so plain as to the powers of the Council, and the authority they possess under the Act, that a man who is not wilfully or hopelessly obtuse, can fail to understand it. Two months ago last Wednesday evening the Superintendent of Education addressed a communication to the Mayor and Council as the Board of School Trustees asking their co-operation in providing school accommodation for the children of the city, upon which occasion Mr. Mayor Lewis favored his colleagues with a most able and legal opinion on the subject of the School Act and the Council's connection therewith, and closed by saying it was his deliberate judgment, the Council were not a Board of School Trustees, and would therefore decline to put a motion to the effect that the Council do resolve itself into a Board of School Trustees, for the purpose of taking official action upon the Superintendent's communication. Other members of the Council endeavored to enlighten his Worship on the subject, but his mind seemed to have become irretrievably belogged, and he finally agreed to address a note to the Attorney General on the subject, and to be governed by his answer. He did so, at a cost of two weeks' lost time to the Trustees Board and the public, and obtained from the Attorney General a reply clearly and distinctly informing him that the Council are not a Board of School Trustees under the new Act. The Mayor's question was as follows: "Will you give me your opinion as to whether the Mayor and Council at the present time are to be considered as School Trustees for the City of Victoria School District?" To this the Attorney General replied: "I beg to state that I think the Mayor and Council come within the scope of the tenth section of the Act; that they are to be regarded as the School Trustees in a district existing at the time the Act came into force, and are to continue to hold office until the annual election of 1873." He further says, in calling attention to the fifth section of the Common School Ordinance, 1869: "I think that their Council as Trustees powers and duties will continue under the new Act until the year 1873, as in the instance of the Trustees in other Districts." Surely the Attorney General's reply should have satisfied his punctilious Worship, and he is sure it will every common sense man in the community, and have prompted him to arrange for a Trustees meeting forthwith; but it appears his Worship has suddenly risen so high in his own estimation as an interpreter of laws, that he deems it to be guided by the opinion of the Attorney General, even after he has trespassed upon that gentleman's time so far as to draw from him a lengthy communication on the subject. The good taste of such conduct is not beyond question, but we forbear making any comments upon it. In order that our readers may clearly comprehend the Mayor's attitude on this question, which is one of very great public interest, we will quote from the Acts of 1869 and 1872 those clauses having a direct bearing on the subject. The substance of the clause of the School Ordinance, 1869, as amended by the Victoria City, is as follows: "That the Municipal Council of the City of Victoria shall be and are hereby constituted the Local Board for the City of Victoria, and shall have and may exercise all the powers vested in Local Boards by this Ordinance, without any special election or special meetings for the purpose of this Ordinance." The first clause of the Act of 1872 repeals the School Ordinance of 1869 and 1870, and it is in this repealing clause of the new Act against which his Worship appears determined to run amuck, and save for himself an ephemeral notoriety. Were the new Act silent with reference to School Boards existing under the Ordinance of 1869, the Mayor would have some reasonable excuse for obstructing the operations of the law; but the new Act is particularly clear on the point. The fifth section reads thus: "All School Districts existing at the date when this Act comes into operation shall continue until altered as hereinafter provided." Now, we see no ambiguity in that clause that should cause any person of ordinary intellect to question its meaning; and hence our esteemed Mayor puts quite a different construction upon it to what either the Attorney General or anyone else does, we are led to believe he is blessed with the word saturnian. The tenth clause of the term of office of existing School Boards, as follows: "The School Trustees in any district existing at the time this Act shall come into force, shall continue to hold office until the annual election of Trustees in 1873, and no longer unless re-elected." Here, then, is all that bears upon the question. The Attorney General says the Council are the School Board, the Mayor says they are not, and refuses to act. The public may draw their own conclusions as to whose opinion is entitled to most weight. In the meantime the educational interests of the city are being neglected—the midsummer vacation will soon take place, and if the Mayor's obstinacy is allowed to go on unchecked, the best part of the year will be frittered away and nothing be done. The Council are the School Board, beyond any manner of doubt, and as there is no provision in the Act providing against such an emergency, if the Council do not act, there will be no public schools in Victoria until after the second Wednesday in January, 1873. We sincerely hope the Mayor will reconsider the question and aid the members of the Council in carrying into effect the provisions of the new School Act. Should he not do so, we would suggest the expediency of presenting his Worship with a well-signed requisition asking him to resign, in order that some one having less unnecessary scruples of conscience on matters of law might take his place. We are aware that the weight of civic business bears heavily upon him, and we feel assured that his resignation at the present juncture would be a relief both to himself and his fellow-citizens.
